I am trying to assign various data types according to a CSV file which consists of values separated by ",", Such as C, 10, 2.0, and so on. And I have a function that does this job perfectly but it takes a really long time to execute. It makes a name list from the file and stores the names to an array(1D array). It then goes through the names that it found and assigns the data type according to the names to an array(2D array) called 'data'. My question is how can I make this function more efficient? Or is it possible to make it more efficient? If anyone knows how to make my code more efficient and cleaner please let me know. Thanks in advance. /***** // Getting Data

Decompile assembly code to C/C++ code with fast speedSickle cell disease (SCD) is a genetic blood disorder that affects about 200,000 people in the U.S. Individuals who have SCD have reduced oxygen-carrying capacity due to an inherited mutation in hemoglobin. Sickle red blood cells are structurally abnormal, and will not flow normally through blood vessels. Sickling causes blood vessels to become narrower (ischemia). The cause of ischemic pain is not fully understood but may result from inflammation and infiltration of immune cells into the epiphyseal regions (gymnosium) of the bones. The current treatment for painful ischemic events is to administer opioids. Opioids relieve the pain but, in patients with SCD, opioids may be unsafe because the red blood cells will not flow normally, causing the opioid to be delivered to other tissues and increasing the risk of potential adverse effects. We recently demonstrated that low level ultrasound therapy can produce an analgesic effect in a mouse model of SCD. The goal of this study is to test the hypothesis that ultrasound therapy can be used to treat pain in a SCD mouse model. Three aims will be investigated. Specific aim 1 will test the effect of ultrasound therapy on total opioid intake, growth and welfare in a SCD mouse model. Specific aim 2 will test the effect of ultrasound therapy on leg pain in a SCD mouse model. Specific aim 3 will determine if ultrasound therapy decreases blood flow and oxygen delivery to the feet in a SCD mouse model. The findings of this study will provide proof of concept to test the effectiveness of ultrasound therapy to treat pain in a SCD mouse model. This proposal may lead to a method of reducing opioid consumption and improving the quality of life in patients with SCD.
