and Legal Notices. The man who was stabbed and injured by a Newport Beach man during an early morning altercation in Irvine died Tuesday, Orange County sheriff's officials said. The alleged stabbing occurred after midnight on Oct. 18 in the 1200 block of Violet Lane, authorities said. It is believed the two men knew each other, but their exact relationship wasn't released. Deputies were called to the scene after the man was found in the parking lot of a nearby business, said Lt. Jeff Nightengale. When the officers arrived, they made contact with a 36-year-old Newport Beach man who said he was trying to break up a fight between a stranger and his friend. The man told deputies that the stranger had a knife, and that the stranger stabbed his friend in the chest. The injured man was taken to a hospital, but died a few days later, Nightengale said. He was identified as Alfonso Torres.

During the investigation, deputies recovered a knife that had been concealed in the man's jacket and was thrown by the suspect, Nightengale said. It's unclear e79caf774b
