indian.national.media.lai.vac-7.apkgolkes..Elevated plasma tumor necrosis factor-alpha levels in dialysis-related amyloidosis patients with refractory anemia. End-stage renal disease is associated with a variety of systemic abnormalities, including hematological abnormalities. We evaluated the influence of tumor necrosis factor-alpha (TNF-alpha) on hematological abnormalities in a patient with dialysis-related amyloidosis. The levels of serum TNF-alpha were measured and the hematological parameters were compared before and after treatment with a TNF-alpha-blocking antibody. The measurements of serum TNF-alpha showed that a dialysis-related amyloidosis patient had an elevation of plasma TNF-alpha levels. Both the number of white blood cells and platelets and the hemoglobin level decreased during dialysis sessions. These changes were improved following a TNF-alpha-blocking antibody. These results demonstrated that TNF-alpha levels were elevated in the dialysis-related amyloidosis patient, and suggested that TNF-alpha played a role in the hematological abnormalities of this case.Q: Casting SqlDataReader to an Interface I would like to implement a method that will return a certain object if the query statement returns values.
