crewman of a passing vessel heard the captain and first mate arguing about a crown a week from being paid. As he listened to what sounded like money being thrown to the deck, he decided to go up on deck to investigate. So that's exactly what he did!
Once he was on deck he saw something in the distance... "I think I see a light off in the distance!" "It's too dark to tell for sure though!" The crewman yelled as they both ran off to investigate. The storm escalated and the waves crashed violently against the small ship and would have killed him instantly, if not for the fact that he was on a vessel marooned in the middle of the ocean! The crewman looked out in the distance and saw a light on a little island! He was sure that this was the captain's paradise! He knew that he would be the one Contemporary Art Museum The Turner Contemporary is a contemporary art museum in Margate, Kent, England, creating a visual, social and cultural experience through stimulating major exhibitions of the world's leading contemporary art. The museum is accredited by the UK Museums, Libraries and Archives Council as having contribution in its permanent collections of the Tate Collection. In 2013, it was named Heritage project of the year by the CIPA (UK Council for the Arts), following a £54.5 million funding grant from the Heritage Lottery Fund - an award of £1m per year for five years. Construction The £54.5 million project was supported by £33.5 million from the European Regional Development Fund through the Kent Creative Programme, and £12.5 million from the European Social Fund. The museum opened to the public on 4 October 2010, as the UK's first regional contemporary art museum. In 2012, Turner Contemporary was listed in the Sunday Times Best of best quality. Collection The museum's Collection is focused on London and Kent, and is supplemented from the private collections of Turner family members and benefactors of the museum, including owners of Oasis Hotels, Noble Group and Vue Entertainment. Current exhibitions 2020's first exhibition for the museum will be creating an immersive fusion experience between architecture, mathematics and photography in a live interactive installation, This Place. The location of This Place will be transformed throughout the exhibition, allowing the audience to participate in a room-size version of the installation. Previous exhibition 2019: Megan Schaller: Sweet&Human, curated by Tyler Greenhalgh, is a site-responsive work comprised of a series of sculptural objects and experiences, that capitalises on the interplay between the external and the internal, and explores creativity alongside human vulnerability. This is the first exhibition to screen in the new Turner Contemporary Curve. 2018: The Institute 2018. The Institute is an exhibition by Carolyn Christov-Bakargiev that takes place at Turner Contemporary alongside a catalogue and publication exhibition that combines to create a sophisticated and cerebral work. The catalogue features the work of nineteen artists who have exhibited at the museum over the last seven years, including Noson Sadeghi, John Hoskins, Jana Sterbak, Frances Stark and Hanne Falk. 2017: James Shaw's The Last Socialist. 2016: John
