Road.Creator..Road.Creator.Pro.v2.00.x64..app.zip .road creator pro.. " I tried some code based on these threads without any luck: `preg_match_all('/^.road creator pro.$/', $output) preg_match_all('/^.road creator pro.$/', preg_replace('/.road creator pro.$/', "", $output))` Also tried it without the regex, just get the same 5 results: `foreach($output as $i => $o) { if(preg_match('/^.road creator pro.$/', $o)) { echo $o; } }` So the problem is that the results still echo 5 times, why? Thanks in advance. A: The ^ character means "start of string," so the `preg_match` will only match if the string starts with the characters road creator pro. Your expression, `/road creator pro.`, will match any line that contains at least one word. The easiest solution is to use the `preg_match_all()` function, which takes an array of strings as the pattern and an array of arrays as the subject. `$output = preg_match_all('/road creator pro.', $output);` If there are any more groups (i.e. other lines that
