bring a counterclaim for affirmative relief against the other." This type of case clearly falls within the literal meaning of Rule 13(a). We therefore hold that the district court erred when it denied the motion to amend the counterclaim to assert a cross-claim for indemnification. 18 The moving party's right to amend a pleading shall be "freely granted when justice so requires." FED.R.CIV.P. 15(a) (emphasis added). The district court's decision to deny a motion to amend was reviewed under an abuse of discretion standard. See, e.g., Ramirez v. Garza, 880 F.2d 667, 669 (5th Cir.1989); Johnson v. Yellow Freight System, Inc., 734 F.2d

However, a district court's discretion is not without limits. See, e.g., Foman v. Davis, 371 U.S. 178, 182, 83 S.Ct. 227, 230, 9 L.Ed.2d 222 (1962) (per curiam) (the court has "a duty to deny the leave to amend... if the amendment would be prejudicial to the opposing party"). Thus, we have adopted a three-part test to determine whether a motion to amend should be granted under Rule 15(a). Under this test, the district court must: (1) allow a reasonable time for the moving party to amend the pleading; (2) consider whether the party is attempting to add a new claim or to insert

By Jayme Gaffey - "As a mother, I look at these companies, especially the 'mommy-tested' brands, and think, 'are they safe?'" She added, "The food is essentially the same whether they're packaged at mom and pop stores or gigantic corporations." "The question is, is it really?" I asked. "Yes, it is. 2Difference between Mac and PC computer I have been wondering for a long time what was the difference in appearance between a PC and a Mac.
For example, when I was in class at the university of York, all the students had a desktop PC, and I had a MacBook Pro.
The desktop PC had 2 different colored mice, 1 green and the other black, and the MacBook Pro had one green mouse.
The desktop PC came with a mouse pad, while the MacBook Pro came with a wireless mouse. A couple of years ago, I got a Mac, and I have one with OS

X 10.6.8. The mouse is different; it is white. I bought one with a wireless mouse and was able to switch between the wired mouse (white) and the wireless mouse (black). If I need to switch, I just turn on the wireless mouse (black) and it turns off the wired mouse (white). The battery lasts a long time. I am wondering if it is easier to change the mouse for a wired mouse, if a PC and a Mac do not have the same hardware. Chromecast not working? The Google Chromecast is an innovative video streaming device that is easy to use and requires almost no installation or configuration, as long as your phone or laptop can handle the connectivity.

The Chromecast connects to the Internet through your router and enables you to stream content to the TV or speakers, which can then play in sync with your phone or laptop. It is designed for the home, as it does not need to be hooked up to a power source and will automatically power on when a TV or stereo is turned on and connected to the Internet. Currently, the Google Chromecast is available for US$35 and for UK readers this is £27.99. The idea is that when you want to watch your favourite program or movies on your laptop, you can load Google Play Movies onto your laptop and then stream the
